- a) a dressed-up party
- b) a cooking contest for the best “blood soup”
- c) a charity dinner for the families of murder victims
- d) a literary circle which specializes in thrillers
- e) a fun evening combining eating good food and a mystery

Lines 8-9: “which will feature dishes inspired by food mentioned in the novels by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.”

2. In your own words, explain what mission the participants have to accomplish during the evening.

The participants will have to solve a murder case while tasting food especially cooked for them.

3. What four adjectives best describe the event for the participants?

mysterious - original - boring - tragic - simple - tasty - dangerous - challenging

4. True or False? Justify your choice with a quotation from the text:

- a) There is a special menu for the guests.

True. “the menu will be full of Victorian specialities, ranging from steak and oysters to grouse and foie gras”(line 23).

- b) People only read books during the evening.

False. “Guests at the immersive supper club will try to crack a murder mystery over dinner, which will feature dishes inspired by food mentioned in the novels by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.” (lines 7-8) Ou toute autre mention qui prouve que les invités ne font pas que manger pendant ces dîners.

- c) The immersion starts after dinner.

False. “After a welcome drink, the scene will be set and guests will learn about the crime as they sit down for the first of five courses” (lines 14-15).

5. Where did the organizers, (Jude Skipwith, Helen Oakley and Simon Lindsell) find the inspiration for their dinners? Copy the following grid and fill it in.

story taken from?	food / ingredients
The Witches by Roald Dahl	A green pea soup = a Thai green curry soup served with lemongrass scones
The Twits by Roald Dahl	A bird pie
Donald Harris's books	A bone marrow soup

6. How do the event organizers manage "to recreate not just the food, but the worlds from within our favourite books" (lines 24-25)? Explain in your own words.

They build scenarios based on the books they have read. They take elements from them to write a mystery and hide clues in the food or in the room. Words and food combined together help them revive the stories as though they were real.

Bonifier toute mention de re-création d'atmosphère, d'univers mystérieux.

Seuls les candidats de la série L composant au titre de la LVA (Langue Vivante Approfondie) traitent la question.

7. Explain how this type of event can be considered as the perfect occasion "to nourish the mind and body" (lines 26-27).

People spend a nice evening discovering unusual dishes. At the same time, they do their best to solve a challenging mystery. They also enjoy having people read them excerpts from detective stories. The satisfaction does not only come from the filling of their stomachs but also from their intellectual fulfilment.

12. Why can James Bond be considered as a sort of British ambassador?

James Bond is famous not only in Great Britain, but also in America: his success goes beyond his original country. Furthermore, through his style, evolutions and achievements, he’s managed to promote an appealing image of Great Britain.

DOCUMENTS A and B

13. What do Sherlock Holmes and James Bond have in common?

Both are fictional, popular British heroes. They both appeal to the public, in Britain or abroad, and are a source of inspiration for everyone: although they are fictional heroes, they seem to be part of people’s lives. Furthermore, people feel the need to celebrate them through different events.

Seuls les candidats de la série L composant au titre de la LVA (Langue Vivante Approfondie) traitent la question 14.

14. How do the event organizers in document A and document B keep fictional heroes alive?

In document A, the event organizers manage to keep Sherlock Holmes alive by immersing people into the atmosphere of Conan Doyle's stories: they re-create the place, the food, and the mysteries.

In document B, we can see James Bond has remained as fascinating as he used to be when he first appeared on screen: he is immune to change while, paradoxically, being in sync with his time.
